DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-20 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1, 3, 5, 6, 22, 23 and 27-33 of copending Application No. 10/773547. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because of the overlap in scope. Applicants acknowledge that the claims are "encompassed" by the copending claims. Applicants then allege that while they are encompassed, this does not render the claims obvious. This is not persuasive. When copending claims overlap in scope and/or are "encompassed" an obviousness-type double patenting is proper.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-6 and 11-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over vanDrongelen et al. US 6,103,814.

6. The rejection set forth under 35 USC 102/103 in the paper mailed 1/11/08 is deemed proper and is herein repeated. Applicants remarks have been fully considered but have been found not persuasive.

7. Applicants argue that the patent cited does not show the combination of properties as claimed. This is not persuasive. There is a clear overlap in the claimed properties and those reported in the patent. Further, the patent shows the same compositional ingredients and amounts which would result in compositions possessing properties that anticipate and/or render obvious those claimed. Applicants have failed to show or allege that the compositions, in fact, do not possess properties that anticipate and/or render obvious those claimed. The fact the adhesive of vanDrongelen is reported to have a viscosity of less than 8000cps at 285°F does not mean that it will have a viscosity of greater than 8000cps at a temperature of 275°F. There is no application temperature claimed. The claim is directed to an adhesive having a combination of properties. These properties are a result of the type and relative amounts of compositional ingredients. The ingredients and amounts are shown in the art. Many of the properties overlap. It is reasonable to presume that those properties that are not mentioned in the art are inherently possessed by the adhesives in the art. The fact that the art is silent as to a property does no mean the property does not exist in the adhesive shown in the art.

8. Claims 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over vanDrongelen et al. US 6,103,814 in view of Boyce et al. US 4,284,542.

9. The rejection set forth under 35 USC 103 in the paper mailed 1/11/08 is deemed proper and is herein repeated.

10. Applicants argue that Boyce is directed to adhesives used in glass and automotive applications. Further, the composition of Boyce are based upon an ionomer. This is not persuasive. Boyce is cited as showing ionomers used in adhesive applications. The adhesive compositions of Boyce and vanDrongalen are very similar. One of ordinary skill would be motivated to use the ionomer of Boyce in the composition of vanDrongelen given the art recognized function of the ionomer in adhesives and the desirable properties resulting therefrom.

Conclusion

11. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
